Interim Search Services for High-Impact Roles

Interim leaders play a highly consequential role in higher education institutions. Their efforts – whether focused on maintaining stability for stakeholders, re-orienting the course of a department or organization, or sustaining positive momentum – lay the foundation for the permanent appointee. Interim leadership is often in place for six months to a year or more, much too long to leave the position vacant or ask existing staff to shoulder additional responsibilities.

Interim search has been a core service of AGB Search since the firm's founding. As experts in higher education executive search, we have a deep understanding of the nuances of interim positions. We recognize the urgency of vacancies in top leadership positions, particularly during times of substantial turnover in the industry. Institutions benefit from working with a trusted partner who can provide interim support during the permanent search process.

Experienced Leaders When You Need Them

AGB Search has cultivated a robust network of proven leaders. They have the necessary expertise to step into leadership roles seamlessly and strategically navigate the institution's unique circumstances. Our objective is to ensure institutions have adept leadership in place to preserve continuity for the team and the organization.
